BEGGARLY DIVIDENDS.

CONDITION OF REAL AND WORTHLESS STOCKS IN WALL STREET.

Deacon R. V. White Adds Fortune to Fortune. Leaves His Friends in the Lurch and Goes Fishing--Stupid Questions--Joy Gould--Stock Talk.

New York, July 7.--The stock exchange continues to surprise even those who until now had believed that they knew its ways thoroughly well. The more unfavorable the news in regard to the condition of railroad business the stiffer becomes prices of railroad stocks. The semi-annual reports of the Lake Shore and Michigan Central companies were most discouraging, showing as they did that both concerns are heavily behind in earning their fixed charges, yet their stocks go up at a rate which would not be justified even if it had been shown that the companies are beginning to earn a dividend.

New York Central declared a beggarly dividend of one-half per cent., and that they to pay the bonds from being thrown upon the market, yet the stock jumps up nearly two per cent. in one day. The slightest baseness rumor is sufficient for the room traders to begin a purchasing movement on, and to put prices up as if there had been a sudden and general improvement in the condition of affairs.

One by one the large speculators both on the bear and on the bull side have been leaving the arena for the summer, but money is so cheap, the banks are so obliging, and the amount of stocks which most of them keep out of the market is so large that it is very easy to keep up the quotations of the tape and in many cases it becomes absolutely necessary to do so for the sake of not being compelled to disclose the loss of Of course, this kind of work cannot go on forever, and the most thrilling accident may bring the whole thing to a collapse, but so far the movement has been sufficiently well sustained to resist even two days dynamite explosions as the bursting of the Lackawanna and the Pacific Mail. Street seems to have decided that both were accidental, and I went on marking up worthless stocks and defaulted bonds as readily as if nothing had happened.

The Lackawanna was of course, due to the "skipping" of that illustrious religious and astronomical financier, Deacon R. V. White. He made another fortune in addition to the one he had before, left all his friends in the lurch, and went fishing. This is right enough. Many people have done the same on a larger scale as on a smaller scale, all over the world, and in all branches of business. A great many more would be delighted to do this same thing if they had a chance. But that is not the question. What matters Wall street now is to define, so to say, the moral status of the deacon.

"Is he as truly good a man and as square a financier as he was supposed to be?" This is the question which troubles Wall street. In some cases it assumes even the more concrete form of "Is he as good as Jay Gould or not?"

The question is a stupid one. Comparison can be made only between objects of the same nature. Gould is a schemer of amazing abilities. He builds up immense systems of railroads and telegraphs. He is a head and soul of innumerable corporations, some of which are of national importance. He is a public man in the broadest sense of the word. His name and his works will live in the history of the progress of this country. The thing he did and still does that makes him to be envied, even by his enemies, is this: But that is another question. He may be a bad man, but he is a great man. Posterity will decide whether he was as bad as his contemporaries or not.

Deacon White, on the other hand, may be a good man, but he is a very small one, and posterity will take no more interest in him than his contemporaries take interest in the black man he is trying to catch now. Stock gambling with Gould is a different sport. He might just as well have gambled at poker or roulette, and would probably be much better off had he never gambled. With the deacon the thing is quite different. Stock gambling is his profession, and all the community can possibly have an interest in is the question: "Is he a square gambler?" If he ruses people to be in the skin, he is not, if he does not, he is. That is about all that Wall street has to decide about. This is otherwise uninteresting and unimportant person. He is very rich now, and if he has sense, he will probably retire. If he does not, Wall street is sharp enough to find out soon how to play against him.

The depression in the price of the Pacific Mail stock, which next took the tumble in Lackawanna was the most conspicuous event of the week, may be considered as a mere accident. The loss of the City of Tokyo is a very serious one, but others of the company ever cut it will not interfere with the company's ability to pay its dividend. They will pay the fifth July they will have $400,000 in the treasury, which will leave them $400,000 on hand after paying the dividend. They also say that earnings now run at the rate of ten per cent. upon the capital of the company, so that they can pay out five per cent., and still immediately add half a million to the surplus fund. All this ought to be encouraging to the stockholders who saw the price of their stock tumble at an alarming rate last week.

GENERAL GRANT.

The Time Defying Aimlessly on Mount McGregor. MOUNT MCGREGOR, N. Y., July 7.--Gen. Grant remained in his room all morning. He was restless, which caused him to be wakened during the night and the attention of Dr. Douglas was required by times during the night. His increasing debility has been quite marked late, it being shown in his disposition to the lack of interest in what is going on. It is not long since he moved about a good deal or occupied his mind in some way, but for a few days past he has been withdrawing himself from the occupation that kept him occupied, and he has allowed matters to drift. The doctor says he is saving his strength.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Details of Affairs in China and South America.

WASHINGTON, July 7.--Rear Admiral Jossart reports to the navy department for a solemn that the entire revolutionary force has been withdrawn from Bonarrulla and the coast, and placed in position sixty miles up the Magdalena, where the government forces are entrenched, and a battle is expected. The revolutionists have abandoned their last sea-going vessel, and the Colombian government still has one good war ship at Aspinwall.

Admiral Jossart will order the Swartara north immediately. He says the presence of the other two vessels is no longer necessary.

Peruvian Affairs.

WASHINGTON, July 7.--Capt. Norton reports to the navy department that the political condition of Peru remains unchanged. Trujillo is in the hands of the revolutionists. The revolutionary leader threatens to attack Lima. Mollendo has been recaptured by the government forces and the port remains in the hands of American citizens have been requested throughout Peru.

Capt. Norton is taking every precaution to preserve the health of the men of the ship, and reports that the climate is very unhealthy.

Appointments.

WASHINGTON, July 7.--The president has appointed the following named persons: R. P. Fullam, Eureka Springs, Ark.; John A. Pence, Anderson, Ind.; Charles A. Reed, Corinth, Miss.; John T. Gilgore, Long View, Tex.; Leslie B. Brooks, Mohr, Ala.; Samuel S. Thompson, Birmingham, Ala.; Aguirre L. Major, Shelbyville, Ind.; Wm. Kaeding, Wayne, Ind.; J. F. McFarland, Peru, Ind.; Jas. H. McConnell, Calistoga, Ky.; F. M. Reamer, Dodge City, Kan.; F. E. Martin, Larosa, Kan.; J. M. Perkins, Memphis, Tenn.

The appointments contained in the above list were made by the president. Twenty-two suspensions were made for cause out of a total number of thirty-nine suspended by the president, several of them not being deemed sufficiently serious to justify suspension. With the exception of one or two instances the suspensions were for offensive personalities.

WASHINGTON, July 7.--A. E. Stevenson, of Illinois, took oath of office and entered upon the duties as first assistant postmaster general.

TELESCOPED SLEEPER.

Frightful and Fatal Accident on the Port Wayne Railroad.

YOUNGWOOD, O., July 7.--A frightful disaster happened on the Port Wayne Railroad, between the Fordburg, Port Wayne & Calagorah rail line. A freight passenger train of the road, late in the afternoon, was passing through the express train in two sections. An section of train No. 6 was stopped at Leoston to take on water, section two, of the train train, destined into the Baltimore coach, filled with sleeping passengers.

The force of the locomotive was such that the sleeper was hurled into the air, and as it fell it struck the engine of section one, pulled it train from out this frightful contact, and tossed, beyond all count, many lives. Four of the sleeping car inmates are so badly injured and burned that their recovery is very uncertain. One passenger died shortly after his removal from the car.

The engineer, fireman and baggage men of section two, following the accident, of course, all the passengers were severely shaken up and all alarmed, but fortunately none were injured. The fault of the accident is not clear. It is believed that the express train was not properly permitted to pass the freight train, which they know was close behind them.

REV. A. B. LEONARD.

The Prohibition Candidate for Governor.

CINCINNATI, July 7.--Rev. A. B. Leonard, of Springfield, Prohibition candidate for governor, is in this city, and called on Dr. Boyles, editor of the Christian, and requested, to render a statement of his position before the church, and his charge, in his acceptance of the nomination so urgently pressed upon him. He said:

"If the 323,000 votes who supported the second amendment two years ago will come to our aid now I will be elected without doubt. The republican platform is an insult to every second amendment voter. There is going to be a split in both the old parties--as much in the one as in the other, so far as I can see, and men who never voted the ticket before, and who would tear their hair at the mention of John Jay, are going to vote the Prohibition ticket this year."

"How are your own people taking your position?" "Well, to be sure, there a few persons who would rather I had not accepted, but most of them are men of good sense. They are going to be as good as the Prohibition ticket this year. As I have already announced, my church shall receive my first care."

He Took Them With Him.

CANONVILLE, Ind., July 7.--Several boys fishing in a small stream near the public highway, saw what appeared to be a child's head in some shallow water near by. Examination revealed the bodies of a woman and two children tied together. The woman appeared to be about thirty years of age and was scantily dressed. The child, a boy about three years old, was tied to the mother's right arm, and the other, a babe of perhaps eight months, was tied to the left arm. There was no mark of violence on the children, and the woman, who was clearly a tramp, had evidently drowned herself and children.

Died in Each Other Arms.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 7.--Miss Minnie Kelly and Miss Frederika Gilmore, of Brooklyn, were drowned in the Long Island Sound, about four miles south of this city, while bathing. The bodies were found locked in each other's arms. Miss Kelly was in the employ of the Central Postal Note company, New York, and Miss Gilmore had been a telegraph operator in New York.

BINGEN ON THE RHINE.

THE NEWYORK SCHEUTZEN GREETED BY THE KAISER FROM EMS.

Banquets, Toasts, and Speeches, and Trying to Hit the Imperial Eagle--Fling Among the Vineyards--Cleanings From Across the Rhine River.

BINGEN ON THE RHINE, July 7.--Since the inauguration of the statue of Germania on the Nierderwald there has never been such a day at Bingen. Fifty thousand Germans gathered in the quaint old town to welcome the New York Schutzen and joined with the New Yorkers in celebrating, with the wildest enthusiasm, the 16th anniversary of American independence. German and American flags waved over every house in Bingen. Motions in air and silver letters, "Hoch, America!" "Hoch, New York!" were seen every ten paces. American eagles hang side by side with the old and yellow imperial eagles of Bingen over every front door.

The wine cellars of Herman Weber, situated on the hill, half a mile above Bingen, were thrown open to the Americans and their friends. A grand procession, headed by the burgomaster of Bingen and the full band of the Nassau infantry regiment, No. 88, marched through the town and up the vine-clad hill. All the intricate passages of the vast, cool cellars were illuminated by 200 of the prettiest girls in Bingen, with red, white and blue flowers in their hair, holding Chinese lanterns. A vast number of the top of the hill. Speeches of overflowing hospitality were made by the burgomaster and notables, and in four hours not less than twelve cauls of Johannisberg wine were consumed. The "Star Spangled Banner," "Die Wacht am Rhein" and "Yankee Doodle."

All the feudal castles overlooking the stream were lighted up with red, white and blue banded lights, and grand bonquets of two hundred roses were set off from the colored statue of Germania, high up on the Nierderwald, across the river, and lesser displays were sent up from the hundreds of castles on the river. Tens of thousands of the streets of Bingen, music, singing and the clinking of wine glasses were heard everywhere. The effect was superb, and exclamations of "Prosektor!" "Wunderbar!" were heard on all sides.

About 9 o'clock an adjutant arrived from the imperial capital with a message from Kaiser Wilhelm a message of most cordial and personal congratulations to the New Yorkers. It read as follows:

"I hope you will heartily join yourselves on the Rhine and in the Rhein wine country." The message was graciously responded to by Capt. Dehl, of the New York Schutzen, and Herr Wachter, the Schutzen King of Germany. The expert was then posted forth from the batteries and echoed and re-echoed a dozen times from one vine-clad hill to another--from Bingen, the Nierderwald and the Rhine, and the land of the Eighty-third regiment struck up "America," a mixed chorus joined in the grand old song, as the sun began to set, the sun burst from behind the clouds, announcing the traditional Kaiserwetter.

Exposing London Lepers.

LONDON, July 7.--The Pall Mall Gazette, in accordance with a promise made in the issue of Saturday last, has begun to publish an article which is replete with filthy and startling revelations, and while the names of the persons named are not published, several members of the nobility as well as a number of wealthy Londoners are closely described in connection with the lewd practices that they seek to expose. The article is only an attempt the paper makes at concealment of their identity. The exposure has caused a decided sensation throughout London, and has aroused much indignation among the classes of the nobility. The paper promises to continue the publications until it has laid bare all facts in its possession in regard to the disgusting practices of the individuals described. There is some reason to believe that the articles are being brought against the paper by those against whom the crimes are charged in perjury.

French Difficulties.

PARIS, July 7.--A dispatch received by the minister of war from Hue, capital of Annam, states that the escort of Gen. Roumel De Courcy, recently appointed to succeed Gen. Briere De Laiz, as commander in Tonquin, while en route to that place, was attacked by a body of some fifteen hundred Annamites, and sixty of the escort were killed and wounded. The French troops occupied the citadel at Hue, but are being sorely pressed. The dispatch urges the government to send out a large body of reinforcements to the aid of the beleaguered place.

Criminals Released.

DUBLIN, July 7.--The summer criminal assizes have opened at various judicial seats throughout Ireland, and the summer is usually light. There was not a single agrarian crime, and but little of ordinary cases.

George Mobley Dead.

LONDON, July 7.--The Right Rev. George Mobley, D. C. L., bishop of Salisbury, is dead.

BOTKINS MURDERERS.

They Are Marcus Smith, George A. Smith and Dr. Joseph J. McKenize. CINCINNATI, July 7.--Coroner Carrick completed the testimony in the death of C. B. Botkin, whose murder was recently so mysteriously found in Coan alley. The testimony was given by the coroner. The verdict is as follows:

"The undersigned, coroner of Hamilton county, Ohio, do hereby certify that on the 23rd day of June, 1885, came to his death, in Coan alley, near the depot, a man named C. B. Botkin, who was a native of Ohio. After having examined said body, and heard the evidence, I do find the deceased came to his death from the effect of a blow or blows on the head, inflicted with some blunt weapon, causing a fatal fracture of the brain. From the testimony I find that the deed must have been committed in or about the premises known as the Commonwealth saloon, No. 164 West Sixth street, on the 17th day of June, 1885, and while the evidence before me does not directly prove how or by whom said injuries were inflicted, yet it is of such a character as to strongly implicate Marcus Smith, George A. Smith, and Dr. Joseph J. McKenize, as being accessories to the crime, or active participants in the commission thereof.

"A. L. GARRICK, Coroner."

MISSOURI LAW FOR MAXWELL.

The Prisoner Surrendered by the New Zealand Government.

ST. LOUIS, July 7.--As predicted by Chief Harrigan, there is every possibility for Maxwell, the murderer of Arling, to appear in St. Louis for trial about the end of August. The preliminaries have all been settled at Auckland, and now the officers have only to wait the departure of the steamer for San Francisco. A special cablegram, dated at Auckland, New Zealand, which was received here last night, "Prisoner tried and committed for the usual fifteen days. Extradition certain. Officers informed that the prisoner is ready."

Subsequently a message was received at the four courts. It read:

"ATKINSON, July 6, a. m.--Chief Police, St. Louis, Missouri: Captured. Start 2nd. TRACY."

The cablegram was in a cipher, which, on being interpreted, stated that Maxwell, safely, presented papers and was without any serious legal questions delivered the custody of Maxwell. Leave on flat. Chief Harrigan, who has been told that this did not indicate that Maxwell had submitted quietly. On the contrary, he thought that from the language of the telegram simply meant that the courts had decided in favor of the state agents and delivered Maxwell to them.

GOVERNOR HOADLY'S SILENCE.

He is Looking Better After His Washington Trip.

CINCINNATI, July 7.--Governor Hoadly was at his usual office for the first time since his Washington trip. He is looking very much better than he did during the winter. His face is fuller and his eyes are brighter, though, as usual, his cheeks are colorless. He will stay in this city until Wednesday. "I should be in Columbus now," he remarked, "as there is considerable business to attend to, and I only stay here to be present at the State banquet. Judge Stallo is an old friend of mine, and I cannot go to the banquet without his honor. Besides, I have promised to reply to a toast."

Further than this the governor would not speak. He did not care to talk about politics. However, Cincinnati Democrats are earnestly endeavoring to get the governor to declare for Goldie the sentiment is unanimous for Hoadly. In fact it is almost a universal opinion that the governor will yield is said to be assured. However, he himself has said that he would not be a candidate for re-election, and he said nothing definitively to the contrary.

A TRAIN IN MID-AIR.

Funnel Catches That Lifts a Train and Throws it 200 Feet.

SAN ANTONIO, July 7.--Near Walden, 150 miles west of here, an east-bound freight train was struck by a water spout. The engine and the first two or three cars were thrown along like a rubber ball, tearing up the earth and upsetting all in its way. It reversed the train, and the water spout whose course was tortuous.

Just as the water spout reached the line of the road it changed its course and pointed along parallel to the track with terrific velocity. When opposite the train the water spout burst, discharging a wave of fire, flames of the engine, and the train was hurled and climbed some trees to the end of a water fully eight feet high and about one hundred feet long.

The locomotive and fourteen cars were raised bodily and carried nearly two hundred feet from the track, while the rest of the train was completely obliterated. No one hurt. The extent of the damage has not yet been ascertained. Through trains west of here on the Sunset road have been abandoned. Road-locks and a number of bridges have been washed away by recent heavy rains.

Grocer Cussineas.

EL PASO, TEX., July 7.--A north-bound train on the Mexican Central railway, in charge of Conductor S. O. Leaser and Engineer Woodson, ran over and killed a man who was sleeping between Bustamante and Diaz. On the arrival of the train at Santa Rosa, the engineer was called to the scene and conveyed to the Chiniquah jail, where he remains. There are several American engineers and conductors in Mexican jails on account of unavoidable accidents. The fact stated. It is believed that these frequent arrests will result in international complications.

Train Wrecker Captured.

TEMPLE, TEX., July 7.--United States Marshal A. N. Woolly and Constable China, who left here for Moody in search of John Morrison, the alleged train wrecker, captured their man near Moody, after overcoming some resistance on the part of the accused and brought him here. The proof against him is said to be very strong. He will have a preliminary trial.

How They Break Camp.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., July 7.--The camp of the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic is at an end. The camp was precipitated by a sudden gale of wind. Dark and threatening clouds had been gathering all the afternoon, and at one the storm burst the air was filled with dust and the tents were leveled in an instant. It lasted but a few minutes, but the time that the camp was in confusion prevailed and several persons were injured slightly by the horses and flying tent poles.

By the middle of July every iron and steel mill in Pittsburgh, Pa., and vicinity, with one exception, will be using natural gas as fuel. This will reduce the consumption of coal there 38,250,000 bushels per annum, one-seventh of the yearly output of the region tributary to Pittsburgh. It will also throw out employment thousands of firemen, coal-haulers and ash-haulers employed in the mills.

A Turf Challenge.
(Macon (Ga.) Telegraph and Messenger.)
Dick Tenbroeck, the great sportsman, who ran Lexington in his race against time, is still in the field and appears to be yet fond of the sport. He was the first American to win a race with his horse on the English turf, and he has now challenged England to run a horse or horse against time for 2,000,000 side for one horse, 2,500 each for two horses or 2,500 each for four or more horses. The acceptors are to beat 7 minutes and 15 seconds. Just that time is to be a draw; less, the horse wins, and more, time wins.

It is possible that England may have some race horses, that with thorough training and under good conditions could win Mr. Tenbroeck's race. There are already four mile races have gone out of fashion and his challenge is not likely to be accepted. The English idea in breeding horses is to produce horses that can race well and at the same time slow speed. They contend that speed really covers bottom, that a fast, strong horse can set the pace to suit himself. All the English races are therefore dashes, and none of them are steep-chalked cover as much as three miles. America has adopted the English style of racing and it has become popular, and in time will doubtless give our horses more and more stamina so that thoroughbred horses may be used for draft and carriage uses. But Mr. Tenbroeck's challenge, we hope, may induce some of the British crack horse to take a turn over here. An American horse has just won a fine race in England. Mr. Lordford and Mr. Keene have already won honors on the British turf. Racing has grown into such proportions in the North and West that purses ought to be offered that would tempt the owners of English horses to try a series of races with the American horses, that seem to be doing better than ever before the present season. A mile and a half dash at Sheephead Bay, between St. Gatien and Joe Cotton, would draw a greater crowd by far than Bartholomew.

GENERAL NOYES.

How it Feels to be Struck With Democratic Lightning.
CINCINNATI, July 7.—Gen. Edward F. Noyes was found in his normal condition at his office, ray faint and sweating.
"Well, general," remarked a reporter, "it appears that some of the Democratic lightning has struck you."
"Why, no it seems, and I never felt it. I don't know anything about it, more than the papers tell me."

"Well, who made the connection; who conducted the lightning?"
"Why, I had no expectation of it and I don't know."

"There were no petitions, no nothing?"
"No, there was nothing of that. I see the papers say Governor Hoadly made the recommendations, and I suppose he did."

"Well, what is the nature of the office?"
"I know that only in a general way. The government divides the revenue from the Union Pacific, and it is the duty of the directors, I presume, to see that the government get its own."

"What is the compensation?"
"That I don't know. I think there is none, unless perhaps it involves a trip to the Pacific coast, and a hotel meeting at the government's expense in New York."

"Some of New York journals are going for both you and the administration."
"Oh, yes, the Sun. Some of these foreign Tilden sheets won't forgive me for the part I took after the election of Hayes. But this is not considered a political appointment. It has been customary, I believe, to select from the opposite party some members of such boards. You may be sure the majority will be Democratic."

"Yes, but your appointment is very objectionable to the Sun."
"To be sure it is. The result of the election was very objectionable to the Sun, and all those who took part in securing the honest result in the case of Mr. Hayes are objectionable. And now I furnish a sufficient excuse for them to attack Cleveland. I don't expect anything else. Of course they'll do it."

America Ahead.—Peculiar Characteristics of Americans.—The Evils and How Restored.

In this age of bustle and hurry, an age devoted to great projects and enterprises, the American people are taking the lead in the furtherance of noble works, and in the advancement of the sciences and arts. In these they deserve to take a high rank, and through the united works of millions, the American continent is fast being transformed from its untamed state and being placed on an equality with the older continents beyond the ocean. The American people are fast, under these influences developing into a nervous, energetic race, remarkable for its vim and business qualifications; yet there is danger that in the course of years these very elements may combine to the ruin of the physical character of the people, and leave them feeble and altogether different from their forefathers. General debility is now much more common than formerly, and seems to be on the increase among the masses. Many remedies have been extensively advertised for this wide-spread complaint, but none of these have been successful or met with such general favor as the remedy manufactured by Dr. S. B. Hartman, and named by him PERUNA.

Mr. S. S. Goudy, of Massillon, Stark county, Ohio, writes: "That he has been troubled with general debility and dyspepsia for several years; that he was induced to try PERUNA for his complaint, and that after using three bottles of the medicine he was greatly relieved. It braced him right up and gave him energy, and restored him to his usual vigor. He describes his cure as PERUNA, and says it is a wonderful remedy."

Adolph Bakhaus & Co., Springfield, O., writes: "We are having a good sale for PERUNA. It acts as well as any medicine we have, and gives the very best satisfaction."

Mrs. G. W. Needham, Newtonville, Clermont county, Ohio, says: "I have been a great sufferer for the last six or seven years, with general debility and change of life. I was very much reduced. I have taken four bottles of PERUNA, which has restored me perfect health and strength. We think PERUNA a safe and grand medicine."

THE STRIKERS STUCK.

THE MEN IN CLEVELAND AND CHICAGO WISH THEY WERE BACK.

The Red Flag of Communism at the Head of the Forest City Procession—The Oe-topus Unmolested—Another Run Made in Chicago—Labor Notes.

CHICAGO, July 4.—A fresh attempt was made to start the cars running on the tracks of the West Division railway. A start was made at 7 o'clock on the Randolph street line, contrary to the expectations of the strikers. About two hundred and fifty patrolmen and fifty deputy sheriffs, accompanied the train of ten cars. One of the latter body exercised his lung power by soiling the patronage, but with little success. The trip was made without incident, the heavy rain serving to prevent the crowd from congregating.

No fares were collected from the few who took the risk of being assaulted with stones, so that the experiment resulted in nothing decisive. The strikers claim the company cannot run its cars without protection of the police. It is believed that the force will be gradually withdrawn, when found the company does not intend to compromise, and only enough kept on the streets to prevent any serious outbreak.

Four cars started from the barns on Van Buren street, four on Lake and ten on Randolph. No cars had been started on Madison, the lack of men being stated to be the chief reason. Two trips have been made on Randolph street. The cars were run a block and a half and police protection was diminished. The passengers crowded the cars, and fares were taken. Trouble is anticipated, and as soon as the cars are left ungaurded by police it is thought conductors and drivers will be severely dealt with and the cars dumped in the ditch before the police can prevent it. Thus far no disorder has been reported.

In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, July 7.—Three thousand striking mill men met in "Peach Orchard" hall. They listened to speeches by several of the most prominent citizens of their number, advising them to join the Knights of Labor, and the Amalgamated associations. A committee was appointed to consider the matter. One enthusiastic speaker advised them to buy crimson flags, emblems of communism. This the strikers done, and they are now marching through the principal streets with a flag at the head of the procession.

There was considerable talk about breaking open the gates of the Standard Oil works and compelling the workmen to cease operations. Upon being convinced that $1.35 per day was the lowest wage paid by that company, the strikers concluded to let well enough alone, and not molest the Standard employees. Forty holes, who have been receiving $1.50 per day at the blast furnace, have joined the strike.

The procession is now heading toward the mayor's office, and a call upon that official will be made.

BIG SUIT.

The Bell Telephone Company in the Courts at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURGH, July 7.—Probably one of the most important cases ever heard in any court was opened in the United States Circuit court here. The case involves the right of the Bell Telephone company to hold the monopoly of the Bell Telephone privileges in the United States. The array of counsel is something formidable, embracing, in addition to prominent local talent several of the leading patent lawyers of the United States.

There are also present some of the leading capitalists of New York, New Orleans and Boston, who are interested in the case. Two large tables, covered with every description of electrical apparatus, associated with the progress of the telephone occupied a conspicuous position. J. J. Stowor, of Boston, opened for the Bell company. He said he would be able to show conclusively that the defendants' claims have already been disposed of in prior suits; that the company did not lay claim to any particular feature, but to the principle involved, which was that of transmitting speech successfully by electricity. He then cited already numerous decisions in favor of the Bell company.

ATTACKING A WILL.

David Dickinson Leaves the Bulk of His Fortune to His Illegitimate Child.

SPARTA, Ga., July 7.—Great interest is exhibited in the will of the late David Dickinson, the farmer millionaire who died leaving all of his property, excepting a small pittance, to Amanda Eubanks, a negro. The white heirs of Dickinson, who are scattered through Georgia, New York and Texas, propose to attack the dead man's sanity.

Both sides have employed able counsel. The will is to be probated, when it is expected a strong fight will be made. An intimate friend of Mr. Dickinson tells the story of the will as follows: "Amanda Eubanks, the beneficiary, is the result of an early indiscretion of Mr. Dickinson with one of his slaves. It is asserted that ever since the birth of this child Dickinson took to reading his bible, and declared that it took a man of grit to take care of his offspring when faced by society and prejudice. In the will the lawyers are directed not only to see that the provisions as to his property are carried out, but that the woman is protected in all her rights as a citizen wherever she may choose to live."

INVESTIGATING A TORPEDO.

One Hamilton Boy Badly Injured, and Another Killed.

HAMILTON, O., July 7.—Two little boys, Joe Gersprag and John Beck, while playing with the hydraulic, found a railroad torpedo, and while young Gersprag was attempting to hammer it open, it exploded. His left wrist was badly cut and three fingers were partly blown from his right hand. His head was cut open three inches in length and to the bone. Young Beck escaped unharmed.

Otto Frederick, aged 13, of Liberty township, was thrown under the wheels of a wagon while attempting to check a runaway team, and so injured that he died in a few hours.

Col. Williams Dead.

WINNEPEG, Man., July 7.—Col. Jackson, at Winnipeg, received a telegram from Saskatoon, stating that Col. Williams of the Maland battalion, was dead. Col. Williams was a member of the house of commons and a government whip.
